2. Limitations of Authority

The Representative shall NOT have authority to:

- Enter into any agreement or contract on behalf of the Company,
- Make binding offers, commitments, or representations in the name of the Company,
- Issue invoices on behalf of the Company, collect payments, or accept any form of payment for or on behalf of the Company,
- Operate any bank account or conduct any financial transactions on behalf of the Company,
- Assume any obligation or liability that may legally or commercially bind the Company.

The Representative acts strictly as an intermediary and facilitator, and all commercial agreements shall be concluded directly between the Company and the customer.

3. Order and Sales Process

- All customer requests collected by the Representative shall be subject to the Company's review and approval.
 - Pricing, commercial terms, payment conditions, and final acceptance of orders shall be determined solely by the Company.
 - All sales transactions and invoicing shall be executed directly by the Company.
 - The Representative may assist in the delivery process after procuring the products from the Company; however, this shall not be construed as granting any financial authority.

4. Legal Status

The Representative:

- Acts as an independent entity and is not an agent, distributor, or legal representative of the Company,
